Travis Peterson is an associate in the firm's Troy office, focusing his practice on insurance defense and civil litigation.

Travis joined Harvey Kruse in August 2021 and wasted no time showing his value to clients and fellow attorneys. He regularly represents insurance companies and their insureds in first-party no-fault and third-party automobile negligence claims and medical provider disputes. Throughout the litigation process, from discovery requests and depositions to motion practice and trial, he is committed to helping his clients succeed.

While attending law school at Notre Dame, Travis spent his summers clerking in the City of Detroit Law Department, where he drafted an analysis of Michigan's automobile insurance reform. In addition to his classes, Travis honed his writing skills as the managing notes editor for the Notre Dame Journal of Legislation, interned with the Community Development Clinic, and participated in the Notre Dame Business Law Forum.
